Public Transport

Paris has one of the best public transportation systems in the world and getting from home to school can be fast and simple if you learn how to use it to your best advantage. The information below is designed to help you do so. You will find in your Orientation pack, a map of Paris which also includes a map of the Métro, RER and Bus systems. Buy a "Plan de Paris par Arrondissement", a detailed street guide to each of Paris' 20 arrondissements. You can find this at most Parisian newsstands and bookstores.

The Metro

This is the fastest way of traveling around Paris. Wherever you may find yourself within Paris, you are never more than a few minutes' walk from the nearest Métro station, usually clearly indicated at the station's entrance. Métro stations can also be marked with a large yellow or white M in a circle. The Métro functions from about 5h30 to 0h30 every day, apart from Fridays and Saturdays when it is open an hour later. To travel on the Métro, you need to purchase either a single Métro ticket or the "Navigo Découverte"; a weekly (hebdomadaire) or monthly travel pass (mensuelle).

The RER

This is an underground express network that covers Paris and the suburbs. There are five lines designated by the letters A, B, C, D and E. The amount you pay depends on where you are going. Within Paris city limits, your Navigo or a Métro ticket will suffice. On both the Métro & RER, each line is designated with the names of the two stations at the end of the line. All direction signs in the Métro are indicated by the names of these stations.

The BUS

This is the best way to see the city. At each bus stop, there is a map of the bus routes. The bus line and its destination are indicated on the front of the bus. You can purchase a ticket from the driver, use a Métro ticket or show your Navigo. Make sure that you validate your ticket by inserting it in the machine or, in the case of the Navigo, simply press the pass against the magnetic reader. Single tickets are good for one bus ride only; no transfers are possible, unlike on the Métro. Keep in mind that very few buses run at night and on Sundays, and that travel time is dictated by traffic.

Travel Passes & Tickets

All of the following prices are for the central Paris area only. All prices are subject to change.

Individual metro/bus tickets cost €2.15. A book of ten tickets (a carnet) costs €17.35. However, it is more economical to buy a Navigo Découverte travel pass. You can buy all tickets and passes from any Métro station in Paris.

The Navigo Pass

This is a magnetic rechargeable travel pass that needs to be recharged either weekly or monthly. You can recharge your card at any metro station. Once the card is charged, you have unlimited travel on the Métro, RER and bus systems in Paris.

How to Buy Your Navigo Découverte

Go to any metro station kiosk with a passport sized photograph. Weekly passes cost €30 and monthly passes cost €84.10. You will need to pay up front for the weekly or monthly pass. Expect to pay a €5 fee for the magnetic pass.
